

Social and Personal

AMONG the prominent weddings which have taken place in the State this week is that of Miss Eileen Stuart Woods, daughter of Captain Michael Woods, former president of the Virginia Bar Association, to William James Rucker, son of the late Colonel William Alexander Rucker, U. S. A., which was celebrated yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Charlottesville. The Rev. Frank Page, of Brooklyns, New York, an uncle of the bride, assisted by Rev. H. B. Lee, rector of Christ Church, performed the ceremony. Owing to the recent illness of Mr. Rucker, the handsome church wedding planned was abandoned and the ceremony took place very quietly in the home of the bride, with only the immediate families of the bride and groom present.

The house was beautifully decorated throughout with a profusion of dogwood blossoms and white flowers. In the dining room, sweet peas were used to bank the mantel and table, and in the bay window, palms and white roses were used. Miss Nell Irvine, of the University of Virginia, played the wedding march.

The bridesmaids, Miss Lettie Page Wood, sister of the bride, and Miss Frances C. Cook, of Baltimore, cousin of the bridegroom, wore dainty lingerie frocks of white mull over pink mesaline and carried nosegays of pink roses. Ruriger Blocker Miller, of New York, attended the groom as his best man, and the ushers were: Samuel T. Hayes, of Keewick, Va.; Robert H. Woods, of the University of Virginia; J. Deane Rucker, of Detroit; and Francis Nash Iglehart, of Baltimore.

The bride entered the parlor with her father, who also gave her away. She wore a handsome gown of white satin, trimmed in duchess point lace. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms and lilies of the valley. She wore a magnificent collar of diamonds and pearls, the gift of the groom's mother, Mrs. James Dun, of Chicago, and a diamond and pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom. An informal reception followed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Rucker left for an extended wedding trip.

Reception at White House.
President and Mrs. Taft entertained the Council of Colonial Dames at a very handsome reception Wednesday afternoon. The whole lower floor was thrown open to the guests and was beautifully decorated in pale pink flowers. Mrs. Taft received her guests in an imported gown of old rose satin trimmed in Irish lace. An orchestra played during the afternoon.

Mrs. William Ruffin Cox was entertained at a beautifully appointed luncheon, at which Mrs. Trimble, of Seattle, Wash., was hostess. A bouquet of orchids marked the places of each guest and an oval of pink and lavender azaleas decorated the table.

Prominent Wedding.
An unusually pretty home wedding of Wednesday was that of Miss Emma Norris Hume, daughter of Mrs. Frank Hume, and Lynn Sedgwick Hornor, of Clarksville, W. Va., which was celebrated at noon at the family residence in Washington. The Rev. T. Parker Phillips, of Alexandria, cousin of the bride, officiated. The house was filled with spring blossoms. Great branches of dogwood and fruit blossoms were massed in every corner and over the mantelpieces. There also was a profusion of white lilies, iris, and bride roses, together with ferns and

Her only ornaments were a pearl necklace and brooch, the gift of her mother, which she later wore at her own wedding.

Miss Mabel Hume, who was maid of honor for her sister, wore a dainty gown of embroidered white batiste over pale pink silk, and carried a shower of bridesmaid roses.

A breakfast and informal reception followed, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hornor left Washington for a trip North. After May 10 they will be at home at their place at Clarksville, one of the handsomest old places in that neighborhood.

DEPARTMENT ISSUES ANOTHER COOK BOOK
Washington, D. C., April 28.—In this era of high cost of living, housewives and househusbands, too, throughout the country will be interested in a work on the cooking properly and economically of vegetables, just issued by the Department of Agriculture.

The book on the cooking of vegetables is the work of the late Maria Parloa, and is regarded by the experts of the department as an authority on the subject. In a measure, it is supplementary to the cook book on meats recently published by the Department of Agriculture. The two works, it is asserted, constitute the most practical discussions ever issued on the subject of cooking meats and vegetables, and are the final authority on the healthful and economical preparation of these foods for human consumption.

TREES NOT GROWN IN DAY; AND NEITHER ARE OLD STEERS.
Washington, D. C., April 28.—American nurserymen object to putting their heads into a noose that may be tightened at any moment, declared William Pitkin, of New York, in protesting to the House Agriculture Committee today, against clothing the Secretary of Agriculture with what he claimed to regard as too much quarantine authority.

Pitkin is chairman of the legislative committee of the national organization of nurserymen, and he objected to the proposal to empower the secretary to establish a quarantine against the importation and interstate transportation of diseased or insect-ridden nursery stock.

Pitkin contended that wholesale authority meant not only great and unnecessary loss to the nursery and orchard interests, but cut off foreign business, such as the French raw material supply, because, as he said, "those Frenchmen are an independent set of fellows."

"It's a different proposition than live stock quarantine," he observed. "These trees are not grown in a day."

"Neither are the old steers that we quarantine," retorted Representative Rucker, of Missouri.

SALMON FAMILY PLANS GO VERY SADLY AWRY
Washington, D. C., April 28.—Notwithstanding the best regulated family plans, barely one baby salmon in a thousand ever grows to maturity, according to Dr. B. W. Everman, of the Fish Commission, who discussed the Alaskan fish troubles before the House Committee on Territories to-day. Every season, according to this witness, the female salmon contributes an average of 3,500 eggs each, but these eggs are immediately pounced upon by pirate fish of various kinds and species. Even after the young salmon are able to swim about the destruction continues, both by its enemies in the water and by the operations of the canneries.

The Alaskan salmon industry amounts to $11,000,000 annually. Dr. Everman urged the building of two additional government hatcheries there, together with the appointment of additional inspectors.

JUMPS FROM MOVING TRAIN.
Oliver Shaffer Suffers Broken Leg and Numerous Other Injuries.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Luray, Va., April 28.—A perilous jump, with almost fatal consequences, a broken leg, numerous wounds over his body and head, and lying for about twelve hours last night alongside the Norfolk and Western Railroad tracks, in the suburbs of Luray, where he was found about daylight this morning, is the result of Oliver Shaffer's alighting from a fast freight train last night. Shaffer was at work at Shenandoah City, and was beating his way to Luray, expecting to walk to his father's home, about four miles distant.

To the fact that consciousness never forsook him during his stay along the Norfolk and Western tracks, he ascribes his remarkable escape from being ground to atoms, by numerous other passing trains.

ADVICE TO APPLE GROWERS.
Practical Demonstration in Spraying Made by Professor Drinkard.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, Va., April 28.—Professor Drinkard, of the Experiment Station at Blacksburg, gave a practical demonstration in apple-tree spraying in Senator F. P. Carter's orchard, at Washington, to-day. About fifty prominent apple growers of this county witnessed the demonstration and listened to a talk from Professor Drinkard about the benefit to be derived from the proper attention to apple trees.

Rappahannock county apples have made a reputation, and most of the people who own land along the base of the Blue Ridge Mountains in this State realize the importance of giving their attention to fruit growing.

Professor Drinkard demonstrated that it is now useless to plant an orchard unless you spray it properly and at the right season.

A physician for the company, Dr. J. V. McGowan, now has charge of the sick men, and will transfer them to a pesthouse. No danger of infection is apprehended.

Perry Shank, near Broadway. He was found by his wife suspended from the rafters. He had come East in the hope of benefiting his health, which had been rapidly failing.
